Curriculum

Born in Milan on April 21, 1961, two daughters.

First-class honors degree from Milan State University, with a thesis on extraordinary administration of large corporations in crisis (tutor Guido Rossi, co-tutor Roberto Sacchi). After graduating, she collaborated with the chairs of professors Rossi, Denozza and Jaeger as a subject expert.

A practicing lawyer in Milan, Francesca Luchi works largely in the field of corporate law, advising medium and large listed and non-listed companies on corporate litigation (liability suits against company directors and statutory auditors, including financial liability, and suits on alleged abuses of management and coordination), financial litigation (suits to ascertain advisor liability in investment banking) and on bankruptcy.

In 1996 she was a board member of the Accademia di Brera under chair Gae Aulenti. She is currently a member of the board of directors of Adelphi Edizioni S.p.A. and an independent director of Saras S.p.A.
